INVESTIGATE CHARGES

MADE BY YOUNG GIRLS

Los Angeles, Cal., April 21.-The of age and most of them not yet past 18, were given to the county grand jury today when it was asked to investigate white slavery charges in which a number of millionaires are said to have lured girls systematically from home and placed them in "protected resort." Affidavits of four of these girls have been obtained, and according to the allegations contained in their sworn declarations the millionaires involved had a complete organization for the trapping of girls. There were cadets in their employ and a well known attorney who, besides being involved in the actual enslaving of the girls, also is alleged to have spirited away one of the young women who revealed the alleged facts of the case, after she had been threatened with prosecution for attempted blackmail.

It is said that the leader of the white slave ring was known to his victims only as "The Black Pearl." a name given him because of a peculiar scarf pin, but the names of most of his alleged fellow slavers are in the hands of the police.

Katherine Phillips, Helen Barker, the names of girls who have told of their relations with the alleged millionaire white slavery crew. Detectives are in San Bernardino today to bring back Marie Brown, who, it is claimed, was taken to that city by private detectives employed by the white slavers to prevent her telling what she knew.

THE WITTIEST MAN I EVER KNEW

The American Magazine has been offering prizes for the best letters written on the subject "The Wittlest Man I Ever Knew." Following is one of several prize winners published in the May number.

"The wittiest man I ever knew, and I have known many, was not a Yankee, nor a Dutchman, neither was he an Irishman, but a genuine, thoroughbred Welshman who lived and died among the mountains of Wales. 'It is an acknowledged fact that tie Welshman, none other than the undertaking parlors in Logan, Cache Honorable David Lloyd-George, and county, Utab, on or before the 25th the wittiest man I ever knew was one | day of August, A. D. 1913. of the same nationality, named Jones.

"Al hough never in this great coun- A. D., 1913. ry of ours himself, yet his sayings are repeated from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast.

"Preaching, shop keeping, law and medicine were all vocations of this man Jones. He combined wit with m 27 addressing his parishioners, serving his customers, advising his clients, and administering to the physical allments of his patients.

"He was a large, tall, lanky man, lignified and patriarchal in appearance, and could and would crack a joke without even a smile on his countenance.

"Once, while having his shoes shined, the bootblack remarked that he never saw a shoe of such immense size, when Jones quickly replied "I have the shoe on the other foot."

"A wag came to the store one day and asked for a 'yard of bacon. Jones immediately wrapped in paper three pig's feet. 'What is this you are giving me?' asked the man, 'Did m24 you not ask for one yard of bacon? asked Jones. 'Yes,' replied the man Well, three feet make a yard, quick ly replied the merchant.

"Jones had a habit of smoking oc casionally. A brother minister rebuked him, remarking that tobacco was no good.

"Then we will burn it up,

"One time Jones complained of rheumatism in one of his knees. His guest remarked it was a sign of old Well, answered Jones, the other knee is as old, but has not the rheumatism.

"While on the street one day, two met Jones and wanting some fun, accosted him with, Jones have you heard the news?

"No,' said Jones. 'What is it?' They answered sadly, "The devil is dead." Quickly taking two pence from his pocket, Jones gave one to each man saying as he did so, "I always rememeber the orphans.

"In one of his sermons Jones compared a miser to a pig saying that 'no good can come from either while they are living.'

"In his last iliness, Jones still retained his wit. The lawyer who was sent for, to make his will, and his physicians each stood on either side of his bed, when Jones calmly remarked, 'Today, I am like my Savior, dying between two thieves."
